

SHANNON HOUDE

Bio

Shannon is the founder of Walk of Life Leaders, the first international leadership development and team advisory business focused on the environmental, sustainability, social enterprise, impact investing, international development and CSR agendas.

She has mentored, coached and trained more than 700 professionals over 3000 hours including inspiring teams to reach peak performance, calibrating insights through values-driven assessments, and designing tangible tools to support professional development.

Shannon's client portfolio spans FTSE250s and Fortune 500 companies, combined with 15+ years of working with C-Suite and senior executives at Adobe, GE Capital, Barclays, Deloitte, and WWF, giving her insights across diverse sectors and leadership styles.

Walk of Life Consulting's partnership with leading US and UK agencies, Acre Resources and Weinreb Group, gives Shannon real-time market insights and extensive networks.

When not helping shape future impact leaders, Shannon enjoys hiking, skiing and swimming with her two boys, practicing yoga under a tree, and riding her road bike along country roads. And meditating and being mindful too.

KEILLY CUTLER

Bio

Keilly is a connector who has spent more than eight years sourcing top talent for 100+ companies across the media, professional services, technology and nonprofit sectors.

She has built relationships with impact practitioners to place more than 400 candidates into leading brands including World Economic Forum (WEF), LVMH, Burberry, Barnes and Noble, KIND Healthy Food Snacks, KPMG, Tiffany's, Aol, WPP, Egon Zehnder, The Children's Aid Society, Cornerstone Research, and Gerson Lehrman Group (GLG).

Most recently, Keilly spent six years at top-tier recruiting firm, Clarity Staffing, recognized by Forbes as a leading professional services recruiting firm and Time Out New York as a top ten agency in NYC. She earned Top Account Manager over two years for exceeding client expectations in managing 50 accounts and spearheading the first volunteer day with 120 hours building a house for Habitat for Humanity. Previously she drove the full life cycle recruitment process of full time and contract technology professionals, engineers and developers in Boston for Jobspring Partners, a 400-person national technical recruitment firm.

Keilly gives back to her community as a mentor for high school students at StepUp and previously as Executive Board Member at The LAMP, a media literacy education non-profit. Keilly co-founded Tradecraft, a women's networking organization that produced four events in New York City with 400+ attendees. She earned her BA in Global Studies from St. Lawrence University in New York and also studied in Shanghai, China. She speaks intermediate French and basic Mandarin.
